

Making Participation Work Children and Young People's Conference

All children and young people have good ideas about their lives

They know what they want and need

The law says that adults have to listen to their ideas and take them seriously

We are having a big meeting where young people can talk about this

If you come, you will meet lots of new people and learn lots of new things

This could be:

- Why speaking up about your life is important

- Why speaking up is good for you

- How speaking up can help you in the future

- Why it is hard for some people to speak and what we can do to make it easier

You can also tell other people about when you have made choices and how it made you feel

The meeting will be in Birmingham at Conference Aston

It will be on 12th February 2018

It will start at half past 11 am

It will end at 4 pm

Speak to your teacher or group leader if you would like to come

There is a leaflet for them here

Department for Education

National Children's Bureau