

IASSN Training

The Information, Advice and Support Services Network \(IASSN\) is commissioned by the Department for Education to develop training on special educational needs and disability law (in line with the 2014 SEND reforms) for Information, Advice and Support Services (IASS) across England.

As well as our IPSEA training programme, each year we endeavor to offer training days on additional topics which are relevant and accessible to IAS Services across England. Training is offered focusing on specific areas of SEND law or practice, which are usually selected following consultation with IAS Services on current areas of need.

Who can attend our training days?

Unless otherwise stated, places at all our training days are available only for paid IASS staff members. The following, unless given specific consent, are not able to attend:

- IASS Volunteers
- Local authority staff not working within the IASS
- Staff working within organisations who provide an IASS, but who are not based within the IASS team

Any non-IAS Service personnel who register and attend any of our training without receiving prior consent from the IASS Network will be charged.

How do I access IASSN training?

Dates, registration details and further information regarding our current training programme are always sent out via the IASS Network e-forum, and are also available on the members' area of the IASS Network website

The application processes may differ for various training dates – if you are unsure please refer to the IASSN training page, which will have up to date details.

Places at all IASSN training days are free. However - participants who do not turn up, OR cancel less than 2 working days before the course, will incur a charge of £100, unless there are extenuating circumstances.

If you have any questions or queries regarding training provided by the IASS Network please contact us on 020 7843 6024 or email iassn@ncb.org.uk